Well Goree Island was used to keep slaves from the mid 1500's to the mid 1800's. It was thought that this island was used to keep slaves in storage sort of like a warehouse and kept there a lot of people died before they were even sold into slavery due to diseases. Women and children were put in an 8x8 sq. ft.

These people were subject to abuse and many people were beheaded and killed viciously and murdered but it all ended in the mid 1800's. But this was a tragic time; innocent people were killed for no damn reason. I wish all this slavery thing would have never happened. A lot of social problems could have been avoided if people could be kind to one another. All this could have been avoided if people would stop being jerks, but that's OK because that was all just bad karma. It's like the saying says: what goes around comes around and it comes back to bite you where the good Lord split you. I wish there was something I could do to have done something so all these innocent people would have never had to suffer, but shit happens. We can't go back and change the future unfortunately, but if I could, every person that had to do slavery trades, I would kill every single last one of those bastards and burn up their bodies so no one would ever know what happened to those stupid pieces of shit they were.
