

Education system in australia

Business

Introduction In my dissertation, I will need solid and sound resources in order to study effectively. My literary analysis essay revolves around the resources I intend to use when studying the education system in Australia.

- The Evolution of Education in Australia Book and Internet service Marion McCreadie Summary Here is a batch of information that revolves around the historical findings of the founder and writer of the book. The history of the Australian education system features heavily in all her associated works. Analysis This will help me mine information about the history of the education service in Australia, and will help me find historical data to compare with current events.
- The Central Intelligence Agency in the USA Free website services Summary This is a US company that offers free information on its website, and some of it revolves around the education systems in other countries. It has facts, figures and statistics that many consider to be correct. Analysis Their website has a lot of information about the state of education in different countries and will help me measure the state of the Australian education system with the state of other country's education systems.

- Higher Education Australian Bureau of Statistics Summary This is a website and web-based service that offers nationally gathered statistics about things such as education in the country. It is considered by many people to be an accurate record of Australian statistics. Analysis This resource has a lot of value as it is created by the Australian government and many people consider its findings to be correct. It will help me with valuable statistics and facts that few can dispute without first calling into question the validity and correctness of their fact gathering processes.
- World education

<https://assignbuster.com/education-system-in-australia/>

rankings Pearson publishing Summary This is a book that gives figures and facts about world rankings in education. It also features Australia and has a lot of information that is relevant to my dissertation.

The information is also seen as correct by a great many people and the work is much respected. Analysis This is a well-respected work that many people can reference and understand very easily, so it will work well as a part of my dissertation and the information in it will prove valuable to me. • Home

Education Association Inc (Australia) Website Summary This is a website that compiles information about people that are taught at home instead of enrolling in and going to school. It is a trusted resource that a lot of people believe gives accurate information. Analysis My dissertation will need the perspective of people that study from home.

This resource gives me information about the students that study from home, and the information it gives is trusted and well respected.

Conclusion That is a short list of the primary resources I will base my dissertation on. These resources seem ideal for use in my dissertation, and they are all academically sound, which means any analysis and subsequent conclusions are based on true information and so are more relevant and/or more correct.