Business

In the category of video editing, there are many things to learn. I'm just going to tell you a little about some types of editing.

Particle editing, chroma keying (green screening), transition editing, etc.

Particle editing is nice. You can put explosives, lasers, and stuff like that. It takes a long time, but looks awesome. You can add sound effects to make it more realistic.

Chroma keying, you see it in the news. You see moving images in the background, but really it's either a green or blue cloth behind the people.

The producers edit the green or blue into whatever they want in the background. Transition editing, one of the most common and easiest types of editing, is a great way to go to another video/image. You go to the next type of image with effects. For example, it could pop next to the video, fold into a shape and fly away, or zoom into the video.
