Personal ment- Health Sciences and Medicine Personal ment I was brought up with an intention of working as a medical practitioner, though I did not know what I wanted exactly as medical personnel. I was sure to develop a passion for service because the medical profession involves demands sacrifices. My father challenged me that when I joined the University of Hartford to enroll as a Health Sciences and Medicine student. He reminded me that working as an inspiratory therapist, which was my ambition later on involved dedication of both time and skill. At college, I studied inspiratory therapy program, which gave me an inspiration for my future. I had a chance to learn ethics and professional requirements for practice. The course mainly provided an opportunity to gain experience out of numerous chances of exercising that I had. I graduated in fall 2014 with a Bachelor of Science in Respiratory Therapy degree. I also undertook a community health program in the past, which gave me an advantage of experience in medical practice. The latter program gave me an insight of what it means to sacrifice for the patients and prepared my leadership skills. I appreciate the role that these courses play in shaping my professionalism in medical practice. Such a field requires the highest levels of professional competence because it involves handling life. The course is also a preparation for aspiring medical personnel to learn how to tackle challenging situations. My goal is to improve my knowledge in respiratory therapy and training to a Ph. D. level and become an Academic Professor.

My education background combines with my experience to shape my career. For instance, I worked as a surgical assistant for two years. I volunteered with to organizations called Us to US and Hand by Hand to help seniors in cleaning their houses. At times, the work involved mowing grass and arranging activities in Hartford such as Hartford Marathon, which takes place every year. I also worked as a treasure for the Saudi club at the University of Hartford from 2013 - 2014. I also founded a soccer team called Victory FC and won soccer tournaments in 2012, 2013, and 2014. These experiences shaped my perception of community values, always giving to the needy. I believe that the work of a medical practitioner is more than treating; it is about caring.

Studying at Rush University will give a chance to further my experience and shape my professionalism. I hope to spend much of my time at the school dealing with practical approaches to all the courses, which I shall undertake. My time at the University will revolutionize my leadership skills because I hope to expand my understanding of leadership in the medical field. I will also integrate my experience with a higher level of learning, which will be perfect for a doctor like me. Apart from the academic qualifications, my stay at the university will give me another chance to interact across cultures. I have already learned the need to be a manager in multicultural diversities, which implies I will have an opportunity to practice.
