The article illustrates about the ways to strengthen the bond among family members. The author is serious because family especially parents should to carry out their respective responsibilities in building close relationships between children.

The ways to strengthen the bond among family members by parents must give support and security, by maintain interaction and communication among family members and by spending quality time together. Firstly, parents should give support and security to their children about their personal lives and challenges they face. Many parents nowadays are busy working until they using gadget to “babysit” their children. This causes children to feel ignored by their parents. The quality of parenting in educating children since childhood will affects the growth of the children.

Thus, parents should give full attention to their children. Secondly, interaction and communication among family members is important to develop a happy family. Gadget has blocked interaction and face-to-face communication among family members. For example, when family members meet each other, they hardly talk as they are too busy texting or surfing internet. Thus, parents need to limit the use of gadget so that there is communication among family members. Thirdly, parents should concerned of their children’s problem and interest by spending quality times with them.

Children who spend more time on social media are more exposed to unhealthy and harmful elements such as pornographic materials. The statistic shows that 42.8% of young adults and 29.

9% of teenagers were exposed to pornographic materials. Thus, parental guidance is important to nip this problem. We fully agree with the author that parents nowadays are busy working until they neglect their responsibilities to their children. The author had mentioned that children started learn how to behave through their observation of their parents' behaviour at home. So, parents must show a good attitude to be a role model for children.

The author also highlights that parents should monitor their children's activities and with who they be friends because children are spent more time at home than in school. By doing so, any destructive activities that can destroyed their future can be prevent. In conclusion, we reaffirm our stand that parents should take action to overcome the problems that can prevent the family bond. We hope that parents nowadays will not ignore their responsibilities and will fulfil their role as a parents so that their children will not neglected.
