

Example of essay on same sex can never marry as posted

Family, Same Sex Marriage

in the

New York Times April 23, 2013

It is a sad day when man tries to fight against nature. We were taught to believe that we are the most intelligent of the species, but this intelligence has blinded us to recognize perversion, we have bundled up and hid our ability to reason and blatantly try to contaminate nature.

On April 23, 2013 the New York Times release an article about the state of Rhode Island. The state of Rhode Island will be the last New England state and the tenth state in the nation to acknowledge same sex marriage. The bill was approved in the senate judiciary committee by a vote of seven to four. There are some things that cannot be changed and the laws of nature are some of them. Everything that has life from the smallest microscopic bacteria to the great big mammals go through a form of reproduction; it does not matter how the next generation is perpetuated it is done through the copulation of male and female. I have never seen or heard it reported that two males dogs were found copulating, as a matter of fact, I have never heard it said about any animal. Man with all our intelligence is behaving worse than animals.

One of the first thing gay people will refer to as they seek recognition is the constitution: "all men are created equal." The only people who believe that the constitution has changed are the homosexual group. The constitution is alive and well, if two heterosexual people want to file joint taxes or enjoy the benefits of married couples they will have to get married; just because they are living together does not make them married, and they cannot enjoy the privileges of married people. Homosexuals have all the privilege that every unmarried American has. No matter how gifted a teenager is, if he or she has not gone to college a school principal cannot hire him or her as a teacher.

The simple reason is he or she is not qualified to teach. Like the teenager, two men or two women do not fit the requirements of marriage. Everything in America has rules; and the rule of man and nature is, there is copulation or marriage between people of the same sex; and one cannot be rewarded for breaking the rules. The constitution still applies to all Americans.

No one is hindered from loving whomever he or she wants to love; however, he or she does not have the right to force his or her unorthodox behavior on others. I once watched Dr. Phil, and there was a woman on there who loved her dog to pieces, she even said if her mother needs her and her dog needs her, the dog comes first. She dresses up the dog and she does not allow the dog to walk outside. She caters to the dog as a baby, the dog sleeps with her. Should this woman decides that she wants to marry her dog what would society say; everyone would be shouting for her arrest; that the same thing that would happen to a father who wants to marry his daughter, or a brother who wants to marry his sister. Anyone in America can go against the natural laws but there will be consequences.

If two men or two women chose to love each other; they can do so but do not call their union marriage. Marriage is between a male and a female. Last year I was shocked to hear the President say that he believes in gay marriage. What next, will homosexuals be taking their cases to the Supreme Court? When that is done an amendment will be added to the constitution and it will read like this: Fellow Americans, it is with a heavy heart that I come before you today. And I apologize in advance for the great travesty that I am about to bestowed upon the institution of marriage. Marriage as we used to know it is no longer valid. In this great age of technical advancement we the head of the courts have concluded that marriage is between two people with no regards to gender. From this moment on marriage is a free for all; if two siblings, a mother and son, father and daughter, chose to get married, they will not be denied that honor. You may even marry your pet if that is your desire. We have chosen to distort one of the greatest, longest reigning institutions since the beginning of time.

Once the law of the land includes same-sex marriage, anything goes. This country would lose its standing in the world; and the chaos would be like a run-away train. Giving recognition to one form of parody is giving sanction to all kinds of pervasions. Homosexuals cannot have it both ways, if they want the respect as married people than find someone of the opposite sex to marry. No homosexual would like to go to school for seven years and at the end of those seven years is told that he or she is the only one graduating with a Doctor of Philosophy. Therefore on the grounds of equality he or she will be receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree like everyone else. Homosexuals can call their union anything they want to, but not marriage. As a matter of fact they can have a lawyer draw up papers to protect their rights. Whatever America does the majority of American people will never endorse same sex marriage.

Ten states in America have to swallow the bitter pill of same sex marriage. This was thrust upon them and their opinions were not factored into this decision. When same sex marriage is made into a national law, America better prepare itself for more controversy, as other groups will begin to claim their rights.

Work Cited

Eckholm, Erick. " Protestors at the State House Providence RI," New York Times. 23 April, 2013, Print