The Montessori Education Program Introduction The Montessori Education Program was developed by Dr.

Maria Montessori. The Montessori education program is a well-known education program that thrives on children's freedom of choice and group-based centers in the classroom. Dr. Montessori's realized that every child has its own unique gifts and talents, which is why she created an environment for children where they come in each day and choose what they want to work on. The Method for the Montessori program has been tested all over the world and statistics it has over 100 years of success. Even though I prefer the Montessori education program, it is a great choice because I believe children are more likely to benefit from it than other programs based on the structure that enhanced hands-on learning, social interaction, and independence. Hands-on Learning The classroom that uses the Montessori Education Program has unique designs. The design of the classroom promotes hands-on learning.

the best thing about a Montessori environment is that it allows for children to learn hands-on at their own individual pace. Studies show that the best for children to learn something is by doing it. It is just like learning to ride a bike. To learn how to ride a bike a child must go outside to try out a bike rather than attempting to learn how from a book. When small children use all their senses it helps their brain create a pathway which that allow them to retain information at a fast pace. Social Interaction The Montessori Education Program enhanced social skill. In program allows mixing children of different age groups together, which promotes children learning and helping one another. Learning and helping one another is a very valuable skill to gain and use in society.

Children learning and playing helps develop teamwork skill. Teamwork skills will come to handle children throughout lives. With class activity stations for children to choose from throughout the day, children are to learn to communicate verbally with peers. Social interaction at an early age stage is a major factor in children learning to speak effectively to communicate their idea clearly. Independence The Montessori Education Program learning process is self-directed. Studies show that the program built a sense of Independence, which develops creative freedom in children.

The program helps children developing an entrepreneurial skill mindset. The environment gives children the opportunity to think for themselves. If children don't have the independence they could end up having problems think for themselves because they have got used to the idea of having someone else, there to do it for them. Conclusion I prefer the Montessori education program.

Based on the structure that enhanced hands-on learning, social interaction and independence the Montessori Education Program is a great choice. Children and families are more likely to benefit from it than the other programs. Montessori education Program would be a perfect fit for my future classroom.

I strongly agree with Dr. Maria Montessori Methods for the Montessori program.
