

Chance. this moment
we take the chance of

Family, Marriage

Chance. A six letter word that could have possible consequences, both good and bad. It can make people, break people or grow people. Life is all about chance and taking chances, we either get lucky or we don't and that is what makes taking chances so important because we learn from them. We don't only learn from them but they also make us grow as a person in terms of building our self-confidence and they can also help us in conquering some of our fears that we may have. It is great to take chances whenever we can.

In life we may always try to plan our lives as well as try to predict the outcome of the situations that life throws at us, however we are all just like the player throwing the dice in a game of snakes and ladders, we take the chances. After we have rolled the dice we have to be happy with the outcome no matter what it is because we decided to throw the dice. If the outcome is bad, we might get set back a little bit in our lives and get eaten by a snake however the next turn we get could be good and we could go up the ladder and get closer to the end which could possibly be our goal. We start taking chances from a very young age, to be exact we start from when we are about 9 months and we are ready to get up on our very own little feet to try and take our first steps on our own. In this moment we take the chance of either being able to get up and walk or of course falling down, but even if we fall down we will still get back up and try again because we know that we will be able to conquer it. We take chances when we go to school for the first time because we could get bullied or battle but this is what will grow us and we will of course learn from these situations if they do occur in our lives.

When we go off to university, we could either flourish in our course that we choose to pursue or we could despise every moment, however we will only know the outcome of it once we have taken to chance to try it out.

When we get older and we are in a relationship for a long time and we know the next step is marriage this is a chance that we are willing to take as it could either turn out to be successful and happy or it could either turn out to be not what we expected it to be and then of course we learn from this.

Often people make mistakes and hurt others but not purposely and then this is when we should give others second chances to show us that we can trust them again and that we can confide in them. When others apologize and ask for a second chance we should give it to them as and we are all human, and we are allowed to make mistakes and we should treat others the way we would like to be treated. Life has a plan for all of us and we however need to take the chances to be able to figure out the plan that has been planned for us and the paths that we need to take to enable us to pursue our dreams.

Success never came from comfort zones so we need to get out of our comfort zones and take the risks and chances we get given. Some things in our lives only happen once and if we don't take the chance we could miss out, never get that opportunity back and then live in regret.