Donald Trump, the president of the United States will declare recognition of Jerusalem as the capital of Israel, is what the employees of the president have said. This can lead to unpredictable consequences for the Middle East. Trump was speaking of the beginning of a new strategy to achieve peace. "Today we finally recognize the obvious fact that Jerusalem is the capital of Israel, it is something that needs to be done." The last couple of days, Trump called several leaders in the Middle East to make his decision clear.

This led to extremely angry reactions in the Middle East. The Palestinian president Abbas warned Trump for dangerous consequences. After that, Abbas called other world leaders for their help to change Trump's mind.

Not only the Middle East criticized the American decision, but also the pope, the EU and individual European state members as the Netherlands and Russia weren't happy with the decision Trump has made. They think that Trump will undermine the peace between a lot of countries by recognizing Jerusalem as the capital of Israel. The pope, the EU and individual state members including the Netherlands and Russia also criticized the decision Trump has made. Which would undermine the peace process.

The city Jerusalem is a holy place for not only Jewish people, but also for Christians and Muslims. That is why this is a controversial issue in the conflict between Israel and the Palestinians. After the announcement it did not take long for the people to stand up and demonstrate on Wednesday. For example, in Gaza and the West Bank, people went out on the streets to express their dissatisfaction towards the American decision. Many Muslims demonstrated after the Friday prayer and not only in Israel. They were also protests taking place in Turkey and Jordan.

The movement for calls on Arabs and Muslims in the Middle East to “undermine” the United States, according to Ismail Haniyeh. Trump’s decision “opens the doors of hell for American interests in the region,” says Hamas. Hamas leader Ismaïl Haniyeh says that Trump “can not change the historical and geographical facts”.

“The Palestinians know how to respond to their contempt for their feelings and sanctuaries.” On Thursday morning, Haniyeh said that the Palestinians must rebel against Israel: “We will have to call and work on an intifada against our Zionist enemy.”
