Now that you have researched this company, do you think that buying this franchise would be a viable option for you? Share your findings in a two-page report.

" (http://www.educationworld.com/a_tsl/archives/02-1/lesson038.shtml)"

According to what I found online about the Kumon franchise, I think that buying this franchise would NOT be a viable option for me." (http://www.educationworld.com/a_tsl/archives/02-1/lesson038.shtml)

Why? Because according to the review of someone who once owned a Kumon franchise business and had experience with it, the review I was looking for was vice versa. " He/she says that " Kumon is the worst franchise to own here in the U. S. I quit a high paying job in Chicago in 2010 to start a Kumon learning center. No sooner started my Kumon learning center, I was asked to spend $4000 on advertising. Only to get into the crosshairs of another Kumon learning center franchise owner.

Management at Kumon is bad. - There is no quality control in other Kumon centers. Kumon has a bad reputation among Schools and School Teachers in the U. S. -There is no resale value for one's Kumon center.

"(<https://kumon.pissedconsumer.com/franchise-scam-warning-20140612496958.html>) If you fall sick or are unable to run your center, the Kumon management will shut you down. My advice is DON'T OPEN a Kumon learning center even if you are sold about it."
