

Pda sim strategies

Technology, Information Technology

Also, having the right products, in the exact moment seems to require quite some time, and I think this is another important issue to be considered.

When an organization has produced the right product or services, they would want to deliver it according to other current products and happenings in the actual market, and also according to what the competition is doing. I think it is important for the company to examine what the priorities are, and to review the currently established brand service prices.

Since the X7 handheld is in its growth phase, there are many potential X7 customers in the market. So, most of the customers for the X7 will be new customers.

1. How you did on this round (Better or worse What was your score).

Better

2. Why do you think you did better (or worse)

I was able to appreciate the nature of PDA marketing strategies better.

3. What changes in strategy will you make for the final round

The performance of the X7 is holding steady, as compared with the competition, so I will increase its production and sales