Ida film and the wild tales film

I don't like the film because the entire film makes you feel unhappy. It is because the person in the film is involved in a sad situation which makes you feel sad for him. I don't like a film that makes me unhappy.

The Wild Tales film

The wild tales film, on the other hand, makes a person develop a good feeling. It is because it is funny for a person to fool a lot of people at the same time. It makes me happy to see a single person fooling a group of people without any of them realizing it until it is too late. I like the film because every scene that is watched is full of laughter. It is funny when people in good situations tend to laugh at people with bad situations and in the long run, they find themselves in the very same situations. It is also funny when someone tries to kill a neighbor and in the process almost kills her own. The film indeed makes a person feel happy all the time.
