I think proper time management is the best way students can use to adapt their studies to fit within their lives/ the reason is that in online environments, time is of critical value. If a student schedules his/her work and study activities properly, he/she will not face any difficulty in adapting to the online mode of learning.

Answer No. 3

From the exercise, I learned that success in online environments is related directly with structured approaches towards time management in which one can give proper time to each course. In my typical day, school fits at the place of most important value.

Module 2

Answer No. 1

The fact that I have learned about my future career within school is that students need positive attention from teachers. If they do not receive it, their focus can shift away from studies forever. Teachers need to handle each student individually during early childhood education to make the students feel valued and gain confidence.
