The speech of the king become noticeable and effective to the readers because of the continuous use of repetition of words that is also the strategy of the king to give the nation wakeup call to take a step towards Negroes for their welfare. The speech also leaves tremendous effect on the minds of people. Although the speech was more effective when it was first delivered in 1963. Hence, the whole speech contains several examples of repetition of words like "endured year later, we must face the tragic fact that the Negro is still not free."

One hundred's later, the life of the negro is still sadly crippled by the manacles of segregation and the chains of discrimination. These lines describe the present unbearable condition of Tennessee that they are still trapped in the terrible situation and they have a desire to get rid of poverty and sadness which is not easy for them to tolerate. And they want to acquire their own peaceful land where they get the equal rights and which should be free of all binding indoctrinations.

Coming up with the other repetition that is now is the time to in the last lines of the speech paragraph he uses these words several times, where he strongly addresses that this is the time to help yourself by making yourself independent like a rock and say goodbye to the other side of life and by throwing away this separation and inequality because every human being is equal in the eye of God. Furthermore, he also emphasizes over the satisfaction of Negro by repeating the words "we can never be satisfied as long as we are on behalf of them."

The Negroes are being the victims brutality and at every step they are treated like animals that did not do anything without depression of their masters. Perhaps Blacks are not supposed to enter in the hotels and placeholders the whites live and their vote even do not matter in any elections. These are depressing things for them and they will never be satisfied until they get Justice and a complemented.

King sounds recommending the nation In the words go back to with these words heals took the names of those areas where black lives. He recommends looking forward tessellates communities, then you come to know that the situation of blacks can be changed and twill be changed. Instead, he is provoking those blacks that eave lost their hope to live withered own identity and he also tells the blacks in a didactic way that they should leave they've of social outcast.

Another repetition of word Is I have a dream that begin from Paragraph to 18 paragraph. Which them, their desire to be treated fairly not by ignorance and hatred, desire of holding the hands of whites to walk and live their lives together, the dream of having]justice and the dream not to Judge by their skin color but by their heart and character. Tendons want any separate nation for them but a nation, which is united and with solicitousness as with the other white Americans.

They want to destroy this inferiority management, they want to low down all those hills and mountains where a person feel himself superior others and this is not only the dream of blacks but of America. Elaborating the other example with this faith we will be able to indicates that by this faith will definitely be able to come across the feelings of brotherhood and love for each other, and by this faith we will do every work of our routine life together. The word together welcome in our lives and with this togetherness we will understand the meanings of life that gifted by God to us.

By the help of the following words let freedom ring from the king athletes every state, valley and city will sing the song of freedom, love, prosperity, brotherhood Justice. And we need to struggle for the day when we would say finally that we are free. In a nutshell the king's style in the whole essay is very effective and appealing. The choice of words and phrases used in this essay are very powerful which directly affect the heart of the reader and make them realize that this is the time to do something for the Negroes and it is not too late now.
