I feel that school uniforms gives us the sense of responsibility and pride for studying at such a great school- It seems like someone is screaming in our ears saying only that we're all part of this school and we all deserve the best of education. It also gives students the sense of equality so they don't feel left out and different. They make us feel secure and it seems like we're all family, giving us the chance to communicate with open hearts- again It paints the picture of unity, something we should be proud to be part of, and as they say ' Unity I Strength!'.

Watching other students who are in the same uniform achieve their level best, it sets us the targets to achieve something even greater than imagined. I believe that every school should make it compulsory for all students to wear uniforms.
