

Letter of reference

To whom it may concern It is with great pleasure I write this reference for Alton Rose. Mr. Rose came to our as the Georgetown University/U. S. Department of State English Language Fellow in August 2010. At our university Mr. Rose is responsible for the TESOL teacher training program. He has proven himself to be a major asset and has contributed significantly to our school during his time with us. I would whole-heartedly recommend him to you.

In December 2010, we had our first batch of graduates from the TESOL program. At the graduation ceremony, the top student spoke on behalf of the other graduates. She stated that she and her classmates had benefited tremendously from this program and from Mr. Roses leadership. This was no faint praise and Mr. Rose should be very proud of his contribution to this program.

At our university, Mr. Rose has shown his overall interest in developing our English program. In cooperation with the US Embassy, Seoul Korea, in October 2010, he arranged a sponsorship to financially fund the Fellowship program for a number of personnel from our university to attend the KOTESOL (Korean TESOL Seminar) held in Seoul, Korea. Bringing all of this together required a great deal of imagination, fortitude, and perseverance. Mr. Rose deserves all of the credit.

In regards to office policies and interpersonal relationships with our staff, Mr. Rose has blended in quite well. He has demonstrated his ability to show respect for our office policies and his willingness to work in a cooperative manner.

Mr. Rose works very well in team situations and has always developed a good rapport with peers, co-workers, and students. He clearly enjoys enjoys teamwork while simultaneously possessing the motivation and knowledge to work efficiently and independently on major projects in an independent manner. He works extremely well under pressure and has always been able to put his best forward and receive top results.

Indeed, at our university Mr. Rose has discharged his responsibilities admirably and has validated the wisdom of our university entering this cooperation agreement with the U. S. Government.

Mr. Rose is an excellent organizer and deals effectively both with technical people and with those to whom he reports. He is kind and gentle. Superior under stress, Mr. Rose actually appears to become more calm and more patient as stress escalates or conflicts emerge, making him an extremely valuable lead team member who can inspire excellent performance, ensure accountability, and build bridges even under duress.

In short, I would consider any company or institution very lucky to have Mr. Rose join it, as he is virtually a shoo-in for creating the atmosphere and structure necessary to bring together a successful project. His qualities and work ethic underpin success. I would highly recommend him in any project that involves complexity, tough time constraints, or high quality requirements.

I am convinced that Mr. Rose will be as great an asset to your organization as he has been to ours. Please feel free to contact me if you would like any additional information
