

National technology day analysis

National technology day celebrated 11th May 1998 being the defining moment in the growth of technology prowess, was christened as National Technology Day by the then Prime Minister of India. Since then it is being celebrated every year as National Technology Day across the country by various scientific and industrial organizations and educational institutions.

The event in New Delhi today was coordinated by the Ministry of Science & Technology with Union Minister for Science and Technology and Earth Sciences Shri Kapil Sibal presiding over the ceremony to mark the occasion that was graced by former President of India, Dr.

These are available with 3 to 10 times reduced cost over the imported brands which makes them both affordable and available to meet the requirements of the common man. Award to SSI Unit for the successful commercialization of a technology based product has been given to Lifecare Innovations Pvt. Ltd. , Gurgaon for developing and commercializing highly economic Liposome mediated Amphotericin B formulation under the Brand Name FUNGISOMETM i.

v. for targeted delivery for treatment of Systemic Mycosis and Kala - azar.

The liposomal drug developed and manufactured by the company is a superior substitute of the three imported drugs for systemic mycosis. And also to Prime Telesystems Limited, Delhi for developing and commercializing the HDVSL (High Definition Video over Subscriber Line) standard and supporting technology stack for the delivery of interactive video over legacy and emerging cable, telephony and internet networks. The stack eliminates the requirement of a personal computer or set top box in the house through high end virtualization and facilitates Computer Telephone Integration (CTI).

In order to recognize the good work done by various organizations in the area of promotion of techno-entrepreneurship, the National Science & Technology Entrepreneurship Development Board, Department of Science and Technology, Government of India has instituted a National Award for Technology Business Incubator.

The award carries a cash prize of Rs. 1. 00 lakh and a trophy. In today's function National Award for Technology Incubator for the year 2007 was conferred jointly to ICICI Knowledge Park, Hyderabad and TechnoPark Trivendrum. .

This year's award is being conferred to the Energy and Resources Institute, New Delhi.