

Antisocialism

ASSIGN BUSTER

Sociopathic

Introduction

The Sociopath is one who is affected with a personality disorder marked by aggressive, antisocial behavior. In a world full of fears, perhaps the worst one a human being should have is that to be afraid of his fellow man. The human that should be most feared is the one that has Anti-Social Personality Disorder or in laymen's terms the sociopath. The sociopath is probably the most deviant mind that exists and treatment is not very successful because there is not a cure or drug to control it. The solution in my mind to control the problem of sociopaths is to let them live in colonies with each other.

What makes a Sociopath

The sociopath is a combination of other mental illnesses that are incurred in childhood as a result of heredity, trauma and the lack of emotional development. The lack of moral or emotional development which gives a sociopath a lack of understanding for other people's feelings which enables them to be deceitful without feeling bad about whatever they do.

The sociopathic behavior problems that start as a child have links to heredity, a family with a pre-disposition to perform crimes, alcoholic parents that do crimes,

<https://assignbuster.com/antisocialism/>

irresponsible behavior that persists and parents that do not discipline. The child that will eventually be a sociopath exhibits certain feeling inside that they are inadequate, shamed and because of that they are teased and made fun of. The child characteristics of a future sociopath consist of being incapable of following the rules. The youngster will skip school, bully, steal, torment animals, run away from home. The child is likely to develop Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder or AD| HD.

At an earlier age than their peer group the child will smoke drink, do drugs, and become sexually active. The diagnoses of Anti-Social Personality Disorder is not used for people under the age of 18. The Sociopath is defined in the dictionary as a person suffering from, especially a severe mental disorder with aggressive antisocial behavior which is a nice way of saying a really bad and mean person.

Other Contributions that make a Sociopath or make one worse

Alcohol is a contributing cause or consequence of being antisocial. Identical twins are several times more likely to have a personality disorder compared to fraternal twins. A genetic link strongest in anti-social disorder has a pattern of irresponsible behavior 5 times more common amongst close relatives of sociopath men than in the general population.

Characteristics

There are many characteristics of a sociopath and each sociopath has their own special traits. A sociopath gets great gratification in the act of hurting someone for absolutely no reason.

The behavior of a sociopath is so close to normal it is extremely hard to diagnose. A sociopath is a person that acts against society and their sole purpose it seems is to act against the laws of the given land their end. The sociopath will in most cases become violent and abuse drugs and alcohol to facilitate the violent behavior. The violence in many cases is the result of sub-conscious decisions that might lead to murdering or assaulting someone for no reason. When a sociopath is attacking someone they will inflict more pain if the victim fights back. The lack of moral development lets the person feel no guilt or pain for what they did and quite possibly feel great about their actions. A sociopath has little self regard for themselves and pays little attention to their own personal safety when picking fights. Quite often they will be outsized and get hurt.

Some sociopaths are non-violent and stay out of prison by doing small crimes like swindling and insurance fraud. It is possible that a sociopath will come from a normal home but their are more that do not. A sociopath has the opposite morals of society and by doing things like beating up people that are stronger than them they feel like they did something positive. A psychopath is very reactive and will blow their cool because of little things and no doubt assault the person they are reacting to. There is a possibility that serotonin a chemical that is linked to behavior has something to do with the disorder but is not the major cause. Usually a male sociopath drinks heavily no matter what, has a history of frequent fights and arrests, they are impulsive risk takers, curious, excitable, quick tempered, optimistic and independent. The antisocial tends to have short lasting relationships if they are capable of having a relationship. The psychopath is incapable of having long lasting, close, warm and responsible relationships with people. The adult will habitually lie and cannot hold a job for long. The sociopath can seem charming in superficial social interactions but repeatedly hurt, anger, exploit, cheat, rob, harass or injure them. The actions a psychopath no matter what laws they break, whoever they hurt, whatever trouble they have to deal with they do not feel bad. When a sociopath is punished they have no feeling of regret because no matter how cruel or selfish the behavior is they feel it is justified.

Characteristics List:

1. be glib or superficial
2. have a grandiose self image
3. be deceitful or manipulative
4. lack of remorse
5. lack of empathy
6. be impulsive
7. be irresponsible
8. be easily angered or frustrated
9. have serious problems as a child or teenager
10. shows callous unconcern from other's feelings
11. disregard social norms or the rights of other people
12. be unable to maintain enduring relationships
13. be incapable of experiencing guilt
14. blame others or rationalize antisocial behavior
15. be constantly irritable

Diagnosis

<https://assignbuster.com/antisocialism/>

The diagnoses of a sociopath is very difficult and has to meet several criteria in order to get that diagnoses. Diagnoses is based on " a pervasive pattern of disregard for and violation of the rights of others, occurring since the age of fifteen, as indicated by at least three of the following,

1. failure to conform to the social norms for lawful behavior, as indicated by repeatedly performing illegal acts that are grounds for arrest

2. deceitfulness, as indicated by repeatedly lying, use of aliases, or conning others for personal profit or pleasure

3. impulsivity failure to plan ahead

4. irritability and aggressive , as indicated by repeated physical fights or assaults

5. reckless disregard for safety of self or others

6. consistent irresponsibility as indicated by failure to keep a job or honor financial obligations

7. lack of remorse, as indicated by indifference or rationalizations for having hurt , mistreated or stolen from others

To be diagnosed one must be older than 18 to be diagnosed with it and there must be evidence of a conduct disorder before the age of 15.

Bibliography

Sources

1. 1974 Hales, Dianne, Caring for the Mind
2. <http://www.isarastrology.com/wicken.html>
3. <http://www.my.webmd.com>
4. <http://thriveonline.oxygen.com/medical/library/article/000921.html>