Cafe Coffee Day Case Study:

Cafe Coffee Day is the chain of the cafes in India which sell coffee and tea of all kinds.

The company is considered to be the largest and the most successful producer of coffee in the country and their success depends on many factors. First of all, it is well-known, that India supplies nearly the whole world with coffee beans of high quality, no wonder, the coffee served at the restaurants satisfies the needs of the most sophisticated consumer. So, the company grows its own coffee beans on the vast plantations and transfers them itself. Moreover, a great number of the beans are sold and it is extra money for the development of the restaurant chain. It is obvious that if the company provides itself with resources and does not depend on anybody and anything, the success of such a company will be great. Cafe Coffee Day has become rich enough to develop far behind the borders of India.

For example, it has bought a small chain of coffee restaurants in Czech Republic.
