Society is constantly changing; it is observed that both the professionals and industries are constantly being challenged to continue to innovate their practices in order to keep in step with the demands of the ever-changing global economy. My goals are defined by the desire to keep being intellectually challenged in order to adhere with the demands of my career choice. I knew what I wanted to pursue as a career as early as high school. My passion has always been accounting. I ensured that I will expose myself with activities that will increase my development both as an individual and professional. What I want to achieve in life is divided into two. My short term aspiration is to complete both my bachelor and master's degree in your esteemed institution. My long term goal is to become Certified Public Account.

My fascination in accounting is deepened by my experiences in the corporate financial world. I held different positions in various conglomerates. What I can offer your university is my analytical skill that was honed by my experiences. During my stay in the different companies, I learned the value of quality service. It is no secret that the accounting field is filled with demands and challenges. I am motivated to overcome them in order to accomplish the requirements of my work. I constantly sought for high quality outputs that not only showed my superiors my ability to comply with requirements but also my personality as a professional. In addition, I am also well adept with the demands of a global environment. I am knowledgeable about diversity. I can work well with other people. My management skills is also good because I was able to meet the demands of my previous works and still balance my time with other commitments. Moreover, I know that it is important to keep an open mind, because opinions open doors for learning.

My resolve to pursue a career in line with accounting is not only rooted from my high school and work exposure but due to the fact that this is a profession I envisioned myself doing. Both as a professional and individual, I invested my efforts in learning the foundation of the profession. As much as possible, in every activity and engagement that I do, I absorb as many learning as I can get. I am constantly exposed to various accounting concepts that allowed me to be familiarized with the trends and concepts of the global economy. My exposure to these concepts made me value the accounting profession more because I saw how vital the field is in the survival of organizations.

I know that I can contribute to the best of my abilities because I can offer my practical experience with other people. In the future, I would like to become one of the movers in society through the use of my profession. I learned that through accounting to will develop a strong sense of discipline and integrity. I know that the road will not be easy, but I have psyche myself for this instance when I take the next step towards my professional advancement. I deem myself fit for the career because I am keen to detail and cautious towards my actions. I accept the challenge of the accounting field; I am physically, emotionally and mentally motivated to embark on this path. I know that I can contribute to the best of my abilities because I can offer my practical experience with other people.
