Kids dresses designs in the modern era marketing essay

We may not be thinking of the kids fashion trends, though it is the most desirable part of the todays revolutionary fashion trends. This is just not important to wear the latest trends on the kids and to have to have the fun clothing, rather it is required that the kids like the clothes they wear.

Even a small kid can have the zeal to wear the latest and dresses of their choices. They may not have the same feelings for the dresses chose by an elder for them. So the trends setters for the kid¿½sapparels will need to be conscious enough to make the youngsters in tight approach. So the strong evolution of fashion is also the needs of the current market.

Kids may have the certain likes and dislikes which they might not be able to judge by their own or they can explain. So, we need to check the requirements of the parents and likes of the children. Child does like the pleasant colours. The current market is evolving with the latest trends and patterns that are liked and appraised by most of the parents.

The kids dress designers pay special attention on the fabrics and colour combination of the kids dress. The colour combination of the dresses is available in different patterns and is a lot concern for the designers and the manufacturers as well.

The kid¿½strends have been changing from time to time and have emerged as an evolution in the market. The market has seen the different colour pattern for each region in the market. The market can be seen with different patterns from season to season as well.

To be passionate about dresses makes people more centric towards the latest check of the market and the revolutionary changes happening in the market.

Pattern Influencing Kid; 1/2s Fashion

The latest kid¿½s and the child patterncan be accessed and checked with the demand and season from time to time. The kid¿½s trends and fashion pattern is originating from the adult fashion trends. The east fashion is originating from the Europe and then Britain and then from the fashionable American is emerging from the upcoming latest dresses and colour patterns.

The latest trends for the kids are highly inspired from the celebrities, actors and actresses and it also the latest and upcoming festivals which depend upon weather and climatic conditions as well. The kids have the strong zeal to imitate as an elder and behave like them and choose the dresses and costumes which they prefer.

Besides the actors and actresses the kids have the great impact from the TV shows. The TV shows make a fascinating impact on them; the kid does do check the different shows on the TV with different fields which inspire them a lot. The TV shows set a glamorous impact on the children them the them follow the same culture as they watch on the television.

As per the latest trends and the market surveys this is commonly observed that the boys tend towards the sports look and the girls tend towards the singers and the pop pattern. The common trends shows the celebrity pattern https://assignbuster.com/kids-dresses-designs-in-the-modern-era-marketing-essay/for the kid¿½s which lead to the fast growing networks and the magazines and newspapers which influence the dresses of the kids.

The kids do have the strong impact on them from the celebs and the attitude that they carry while wearing there dresses. So this may not always be good for kid¿½s to imitate the adult culture and dresses. So we need to be thoughtful before checking the dresses for the kid¿½s. So this describes a little bit about it.

The Decision Makers Of The Kid¿½s Dress

There are certain ways which lead to check the variable fashion trends for the kid¿½s; among them there are specific ways. But there are two very common approaches that are very much talked about.

The very first step is to ask the kids to choose the dresses on their own as the kids are very conscious about the appearance and dresses which they would prefer on their own. And secondly the elders can make the decisions for the kids and let them choose their pattern and style of their kind.

Though both the factors have the common approach but it is mostly liked to have the children to have the final choices.

As far as fashion is concerned the boys do have a very strong desire to that to the girl child. But the boy child often does not express their feelings to that of the girls due to their behaviour. Parents do not get involved to buy the clothes for the boys as compared to their girl child. However, they help them get the dresses very less as compared to the boy child.

Elders do not find it comfortable to do shopping with the children. However, they like to check the one stop point for all the dresses wherein they can find all dresses and latest trend designs for their child at one stop point.

This is usually preferred to get all these work soon as parents do not wish to indulge themselves for a very long time. So they find it easier to do all these work in the earlier part of their weekend.

So, mostly the child do have to carry the dresses choose by their parents which is mostly chosen by the kids in their own interest. So they do like to wear these kinds of dresses.

Older Children And Their Fashion Trends

Gradually as the time changes and the kids get elder they do not wish to go for the dresses that are being chosen by their parents; they then wish to get the dresses of their own. The older children tend to dress up more likely to that as an adult. The dresses wore by an adult may not always be good for the children with lesser age group.

The dress choose by an older kid is very much centric and patronized to that to a model and adult celebrities, which is not always very good for them. The girl child need to take much more care to that of the adults which is not at all good for the child of their age as this may demoralize the sense and behaviour of the child in a larger aspect.

If a designer is designing a dress for an elder child they will need to be so sure about their likes to that of the adult models and their dressing style.

The designers need to change the pattern of the dresses of the children in accordance to that of their age groups.

The designers often do it by layering up of their clothes; they can make the changes by making a long sleeve on the skimpy top.

This is rather suggested to talk to that to the older children about their likes and dislikes of their children which can later experience as the new innovation ideas for their great dressing sense.

It is usually observed that the child which are more prone to social environment do have the good understanding of the dresses which they should in the society and which most likely is accepted by the elders as well. So the dresses choose May not always being disliked by the elders.

Fall of Fashion Trends In Kids Clothes

https://assignbuster.com/kids-dresses-designs-in-the-modern-era-marketing-essay/

When we get back to the school clothes, they were dressier to that of the normal. I saw children¿½s clothing trimmed with rhinestones & sequins faux fur. Denim can be dressed up with embroidery, decorative patches or beading. Much more of skirt outfits for the baby girls and that of the trimmer cut pants for boys has been shown.

Plaid prints can be seen everywhere, in girl¿½s skirts, pants and jackets, as well as boys shirts. Burberry and the tartan plaids, these are more popular than ever, are in the khaki and trends colour combinations such as orange and brown, and yellow and olive green.

The snake skin print has appeared on shirts and pants, while zebra and leopard prints are there on girl¿½s fashionable accessories as of handbags and boots. Girl¿½s vests and coats are reflected in a western outfit cow print patterns. Mohair, boucle, and textured knitted for girl¿½s dresses and sweaters reflected style and warmth for fall.

In keeping with the dress-up theme, holiday clothing seemed more dressy than usual. Velvets, silks and satins were shown in girls dresses and pants sets. Boys dress shirt options went beyond the plain, button-down variety: many plaids were shown. Vests are also making a comeback for boys.

Most of the colours for girls; $\frac{1}{2}$ clothing this season were vibrant. Pink and its many variations, such as raspberry, fuchsia, and rose, as well as orange and all shades of lavender, dominated girl; $\frac{1}{2}$ s clothing.

The only subdued clothing colours were brown and laden green for tailored girl¿½s clothing.

https://assignbuster.com/kids-dresses-designs-in-the-modern-era-marketing-essay/

Meanwhile, boys clothing colours were more classic choices such as navy blue, hunter green and khaki, in addition to berry red.

Another carry over item from last season was denim clothing for girls, trimmed with textured fabrics, faux fur and beading. Hip huggers and wide leg pants are still girls; ½ favourites, in deep blue or black denim.

Emerging Latest Fashion Trends

2010 has been an interesting year for fashion. This is the year where the press criticized celebrity baby Suri Cruise for wearing expensive designer kid $\frac{1}{2}$ s clothing. This is the year where designer brands began to actively produce clothes for children-as there seems to be a market for expensive kid $\frac{1}{2}$ s clothing.

https://assignbuster.com/kids-dresses-designs-in-the-modern-era-marketing-essay/

This is the year where children and adults alike explored the potentials of fashion from another culture-with Japanese and Korean fashion being in the forefront of the kid¿½s clothing and adult clothing fashion trends. And the year has not even ended!

So what can people expect for the year 2011? It¿½s not too early to tell: after all, designers and clothing companies release their clothing lines early.

Perhaps the most prominent trend to surge for the year 2011 is the theme of practical luxury or elegance for kid¿½s clothing. Again, this is a trend that probably stemmed from the ¿½Suri Cruise effect,¿½ wherein children want to wear designer clothes and parents want to dress their children in design brands.

However, the clothing companies are gunning for something appropriate for kids despite its designer-luxury trappings. These designer kid½½s clothing items will be comfortable and will steer away from styles that are inappropriate for the toddler and pre-teen set.

The eco-conscious theme will also become prominent in 2011, sipping its way from the adult runway to the kid¿½s clothing industry. Expect kid¿½s clothing pieces made from highly sustainable materials such as bamboo, organic cotton, and other similar fabrics. In short: frivolous is out, environmental trends are in.

Fashion pundits are already proclaiming the year 2011 as the year when the 80s rocker look returns. Expect this influence to become apparent in kid $^1/_2$ s clothing-or at least in teen and pre-teen clothing. Don $^1/_2$ t expect kid $^1/_2$ s clothing to incorporate the leather and the highly sexualized look of 80s rock, although many will see the disgruntled, mixed and matched styles that the 80s made popular.

Shopping for children's clothing can be fun, but finding the right size presents its challenges, especially when sizes may vary from store to store.

Manufacturers use sizing charts, and they may differ slightly from one to the next.

Children's clothing is sized based on height and weight. Although the clothing is based on the size of the child, clothes are most often labelled according to age. On occasion, you will also find labels that only read small, medium and large. If you are prepared when shopping with the child's height and weight, finding the right size will be much easier.

Children grow quickly, and it is better for the item to be too big than too small. Remember, the age is based on an average, which means that many children will either be smaller or larger than the average.

Understanding Fashion

Jeans. They are a staple of the modern wardrobe. Everyone wears jeans, especially kids. Parents love them because they match just about everything, making it easier to get kids dressed. Kids love them because they are comfortable and durable.

Jeans are the perfect trousers for going to school, playing outside or just hanging out. These days, however, jeans come in a multitude of washes, rises, cuts and fits. Reading the labels on jeans can get confusing. Like boot cut jeans, flare leg jeans angle out below the knee, but much more so, creating a bell-like shape at the hem. The skinny jean is tight throughout. These jeans usually have a higher percentage of elastic in the denim to keep them slim yet comfortable.

Boot cut jeans are slim in the thigh area and begin to angle out below the knee to make a moderately wide hem at the bottom. Straight leg jeans have a uniform fit from the top of the pant leg to the bottom. The bottom does not flare out, nor does it come in at the ankle.

This traditional denim look is quickly coming back in fashion. A classic rise comes right below or at the belly button. High waist jeans have a rise that comes above the belly button. For 2008-2009 we are seeing a few trouser style jeans with a high rise and wide pant leg.

Fashion and Its History

Children's clothing in much of Western History was chiefly similar to adult dress in miniature. However in the late 18th Century English followers of the https://assignbuster.com/kids-dresses-designs-in-the-modern-era-marketing-essay/

French philosopher Rousseau began developing reformed dress for children's wear, designed to offer greater freedom of movement.

By the middle of the 19th Century this trend had spread to the Western population at large, and most children's dress styles became quite distinct from adult fashions.

Even older boys would usually wear an Eton collar, large bows and long stockings. Parents at the time dressed formally and insisted that their children also dress smartly to reflect well on the family, and to demonstrate their often hard-won social status.

Gradually styles changed in the mid-20th Century to more practical soft collars, short trousers and knickers, before the modern incarnation of sneakers, baggy jeans, label t-shirts and sweats

Parents, especially mothers, used to choose their sons' clothing until they were older teenagers; children had little choice in matters of fashion.

Actually, boys until recently may have sneered at the very concept of boy¿½s fashions as much as they objected to the items selected for them. Children, especially wealthy children, were often dressed in fancy, formal clothes¿½even for play.

Modern children would find clothing common a century ago highly restrictive and uncomfortable. It would certainly inhibit an active child who wanted to enjoy the playground in the contemporary scene.

Today, even very young children have a great deal of say in how they dress, many demanding expensive designer clothing. Expensive design has become commonplace.

The fashion industry understands this very well and eagerly seeks to supply these youth with what they desire. Informal styles are now in vogue with children rarely dressing up and, in many cases, only under considerable duress. These are the latest and old set trends.

Season Trends For Kids

Girls wanting to dress like older teens is nothing new, but as the styles have gotten progressively more suggestive, the practice has taken on more significance.

Girls often emulate models and teen pop stars who incorporate sexual imagery into their act. Teen fashions have followed this trend too, and clothing designed and marketed for teen girls has become more provocative. In addition, the term "girl power" has been used as a marketing tool to encourage girls to define their power through their appearance.

Then there¿½s something called age compression, where younger kids are intentionally exposed to and encouraged to purchase products more appropriate for older kids.

This explains why it¿½s not uncommon to find suggestive styles even in the smallest of sizes. However, these items wouldnot be on the market if they didn¿½t sell: many parents are finding it difficult to draw the line with their girls. Some may even find the styles cute, or at the very least, harmless.

Are Sexy Fashions Harmless? Hard sexual attire in an educational setting is distracting. It may provoke unwanted attention that young girls aren¿½t emotionally or socially mature enough to handle or respond to. Plus, a heightened focus on appearance, fashion, and sexiness can contribute to unhealthy competition among girls.

Girls who intentionally project a ¿½sexy¿½ image at a young age and receive a lot of attention for it may start to view this as the most worthy part of themselves, and may drop other, healthier activities that, in their mind, conflict with this identity.

This image may also make them appear older and encourage connections with older peer groups that may put them at risk for early experimentation with drugs, alcohol, and sexual behaviour.

A clear dress code for your school or agency will be a big help. It should spell out what styles of dress are inappropriate for your setting, set consequences for those who choose to ignore it.

All the rage over the past few months has been over Antalkali suits. These suits bring a touch of royalty to your wardrobe. However, there are some that just leave a bad taste in your mouth. Here are a few hits and misses.

Unless you're a toddler, this many ruffles should be illegal. The suit is ugly to begin with, add a ruffled, scrunched, double coloured shawl and you get this atrocious look.

This is actually a really beautiful ensemble; however the fact that it's not gathered at the waist is bothering me. It's still salvageable; all it needs is a nice gold belt or a belly chain.

However, this isn't a complete miss even on its own because it has everything else going for it. It has a nice summery, breezy feel about it, flowing quality can be an asset depending on the occasion. Perhaps an outdoor garden or beach wedding this will do the job nicely.

A well placed waistline can make you look taller and slimmer. This particular number is a more traditional take on the Antalkali style, but it's a good example of what an empire waist can do.
