Who tells Victor that he should remember that he can marry Elizabeth if he loves her? Why? His father suggests it in the hope that this will make his son eternally happy. Why does Victor not want to immediately marry Elizabeth? What does he instead suggest? Because he still has not fulfilled his promise to the monster, he says he will marry Elizabeth on his return from a trip to England with Clerval. Why does Victor want to go to England? They have things that will help him in the creation of the female monster. Which character reminds Victor of his former self? (131-132) Clerval. Where does Victor work on the female monster and what does he think of this land? In Scotland, and he hates it. When he worked on the monster, science blinded his morality to the gruesomeness of the work, how does he feel now as he works on the female monster? (137) He feels disgusted by what he is doing. Why does Victor destroy the monster's mate before his eyes (138)? Because she has not made the promises he has and Victor thinks the female creation will be worse than the monster. What does the monster mean when he says "you are the creator but I am the master"? (140) That even though it was Frankenstein who made him, he is the one in control and calling the shots. What does Victor do after he cleans up his chemistry materials after his fight with the monster? He gets on a small skiff and brings it out 4 miles so he can toss the lady-monster bits off the ship. What do the Irishmen accuse Victor of? Killing Clerval. What happens to Victor when he sees the dead body? He falls into a brain fever and accuses himself of Justine's, Clerval's and William's murders. Where does Victor awake after his fever, what is he informed? In Irish prison, he is to be hung. When Kirwin tells Victor he has a visitor, what is his reaction? Of fear and revulsion, thinking it is the monster. He relaxes when he learns it is his father though. How does Victor escape being hung? Kirwin thinks he is innocent and defends him in the case. What does Victor mean when he says "the cup of life is poisoned forever"?

(153) The joy of life has been forever stolen from him, for example, at some points he wants to die. What does Victor take to sleep after his fever until death and when he sleeps, what does he dream of? Landononium, but it causes him to dream of the monster. What person was able to bring Victor back from his fits of madness? Elizabeth. What did Victor think the monster meant when he said "I will be with you on your wedding night" and what precautions does he take? He thought he meant he would kill Victor, so he kept a gun to shoot the monster, but the monster really meant he was going to kill Elizabeth. Why does the monster kill Elizabeth? To make Victor feel the same pain he felt when his female monster was destroyed. What does Victor do when he sees the monster after Elizabeth's death? Shoots a pistol and then takes the villagers to give chase to the fleeing monster. How does Victor's father respond to the death of Elizabeth? He dies. Who does Victor ask to help him seek the monster? What does he say? The magistrate says it will be hard as the monster is superhuman. Does the monster know Victor is tracking him? Yes, he leaves him little notes and plans to meet him in the Arctic. How did the monster rob/terrorize a town on his way to the Arctic? Terrified them with guns and stole food and supplies. How did Victor come to Walton's ship? He lost sight of the monster, got trapped between ice, some of his dogs died, he made a makeshift boat and tried to get to the ship. After his story, what does Victor implore Walton to do? Seek the monster and get revenge. What does the mutiny ask Walton to do? Take them home. What does Victor tell the mutiny? He asks them if they would rather return heroes or cowards. What does Victor tell Walton before he dies? To avoid ambition so as not to turn into the wreck that he, Victor, is. How does the monster say his murders effected him and about his reasons? After the murder of Clerval he returned broken to Switzerland where he learned Victor was going to get his female (Elizabeth)/happiness, even as the monster would not and this enraged him to kill her. Who hates the monster the most? himself What does the monster plan to do after he leaves Walton? Kill himself
