It is talked about the culture in the aspect of multiculture, undermining in our days from within usual form of the national state, that is classic incorporated on the basis of single territory, single language and single origin of population; about globalization it is talked in the economic and informative aspects; globalization is in its forms of unification of large business concerns, creations of multinational corporations and not in the last turn in the phenomenon of the internet undermines the classic form of the national state outside, as, indeed, from one side, economically the state is deprived of possibility to get a tax from every individual, included in a national association, from other side, informationally, it throws away an opportunity to control the acts of individual subject of the state. Thus, however much it will look paradoxically, it appears, as well as the culture, the globalization, carries the same danger for the state - loss of a citizen.
