Community Service through the knowledge and Attributes obtained at Wayland

Upon completion of my degree program at Wayland Baptist University, I will use the knowledge and attributes gained to do the following. First, I will use the knowledge and attributes gained to improve the community through being a community watchdog. From wherever disposition of life the Lord God shall grant me, I will use that platform to ensure that justice prevails in the society. That is to imply that I shall not hesitate to rebuke evil and corruption of human beings in the society. Human beings become corrupt before God when they advance their own self-interests at the expense of others. They oppress the widows and the orphans as well as the weak. They do not give the full measure of what others deserve to get in various bargains of life. As long as I shall be privy to such information, I will rebuke such deeds to promote fairness, justice and ethical behaviors.

I will also share the positive teachings I have learned at Wayland Baptist University with others in the community so that they can learn how to relate with God and others. That would ensure that they also understand why certain things have to be done the way they are done. Through understanding, they will also become fellow ambassadors of positive change in the community. Moreover, I will serve the community as a role model of how everyone should approach their service to the community. Such would entail being dependable, reliable, compassionate and competent, both leadership as well as in lower ranks.
