

Globalization change.
the said process
helps the Economics, Globalization

Globalization is said to be the process wherein businesses and other establishments are helped to be in advanced in international impact or began operating on global scale, that can be of an economic, social, political or environmental nature. It is also a procedure of global economic, diplomatic and cultural combination. The barriers of the nations broke down and has made the world turn to be a small village. Embracing globalization provides great advantage among countries, such as importing and exporting of products to sustain each country's needs.

This process also creates connections between countries that will form a sense of solidarity among nations. Due to it, there are also organizations that has been established and work as one for common goals, example of this is the United Nation. Though, this a non-governmental organization yet it helps and provides people needs globally, especially when there are countries who had been suffered from a typhoon or an epidemic. One of the globalizations' advantages is the increasing percentage of employment. In the Philippines there are a lot of businessmen from outside the country who established a company here. Due to this, there are a lot of Filipinos who have given an opportunity to get a job, enable them to provide their daily needs. Another advantage of globalization is when Filipino can work overseas or we called them " OFW or Overseas Filipino Worker" where in they have the access and permit to work abroad. Globalization also helped the employer to find their workers easily and can make there work done hastily.

In developing countries, job earnings appear to be progressive. Yet, in the other hand the gap of job earnings between the best and least certified employees seems to be broadening within the industrialized countries. Both outside and inside of the country benefit in the globalization process, but in the part where a worker suffers from a change of job because their education did not meet their standard is probably one of the disadvantages of globalization.

<https://assignbuster.com/globalization-change-the-said-process-helps-the/>

In a country's developing aspect, globalization process also has a part, whether it results to a problem or progress, there is still an occurrence of change. The said process helps the developing countries to cope with the others regarding in the increase of their economic growth, and finding a solution in terms of poverty problem of a country. With the help of globalization, many countries are now embracing modernization and sophistication of their technology.

Globalization inclines the disparity between the rich and the benefit of globalization is not universal: the rich will become richer and the poor will suffer more. For an instance, the countries like China and India who progress more than the nations who are already rich. Nevertheless, countries like Africa still at the top in the highest poverty rate together with the rural areas of China, who didn't utilize on global markets also suffered from poverty. However, developed countries put up their establishments and companies to the progressive nations to take benefit of low income and this causing trouble in countries with poor guideline of problem. Moreover, creating companies and factories in the developing nations by developed countries concern badly in the economy of the developed countries and increase the rate of unemployment. As a country continues to adopt globalization, many industries and factories are going to be built and another sophisticated things are going to be discovered, yet, it will cause more problems on our environmental aspect.

As we continue to progress with globalizations, the importance of taking care of our nature will be left behind. It is going to be “continued to develop the country” without knowing our responsibilities in our nature, it would lead us to another disaster and another problem of poverty. In social implication of globalization have so far been observed as a reflection, or as an unlucky significance of progress. The ability to continue thinking, feeling and dreaming appears to be somehow threatened.

The sense that the latest universal paradigm can somehow enable us to be a full capacity human. This submission to what are noticed to be unstoppable and unjust forces, is contradicting the promise of globalization. As Senior High students, our role in the globalization is very important. We are the youth and considered to be the hope of our tomorrows. We can make things possible in simple ways and spend our life with beautiful memories and activities that will mark to people's minds and hearts. We may not achieve what really the country's wants, but at least we can make a better world together with one goal and one heart.