*Your topic must be related to your major/discipline of study in some fashion. You need to narrow your topic – the above list includes many entries that are much too broad for the focus of the paper.

Remember these are suggestions to help you think of general topics to pursue.

You will be required to narrow the focus to a manageable topic for a 2500-3500 word paper. Please note that your research paper/long report is supposed to be set up as a ‘problem/solution’; in other words, you are supposed to pose the topic as a problem and you will find research to support a solution to the problem. You will also be making a recommendation at the end of your long report based on the research you have found. This is not an ‘informational’ research paper where you present information/data only.
