

Communication within workplace

Sociology, Communication

What does communication actually mean? Communication is defined as the process of interchange of information that mainly includes sending and receiving processes. What does a successful communication mean? When sending a message, there are various barriers that can interrupt, disturb, or affect the overall communication structure. By solving these problems and finally receiving the message in a proper manner, it becomes a successful communication.

In this research, I am going to identify the main purposes of communication, find out the characteristics of an organization's structure, analyze the impact of the organization structure on how communication occurs and on its effectiveness, and study changes in organizational structures. At the same time, I will study the barriers of communication in my workplace. Finally, I will find out ways to avoid these barriers to improve communication and the problem-solving ways to have a beautiful standard communication structure within my workplace.

Research Question: 1. What are the benefits or purposes of communication within a workplace? 2. What is the structure of communication that should be in a workplace and not in my workplace? 3. What are the barriers of communication within a workplace? 4. How to adopt the proper communication structure?

5. Who should be responsible for a successful communication in a workplace, and who will be benefited by this proper channel? 6. What kind of communication should be in place, depending on the situation? 7. What are the differences of current communication system and the communication should be adopted?

8. How to overcome the barriers to improve communication my workplace?

Research Objective: The objective of this research is analysis the overall communication benefits and the barriers that make brake down of communication and also the ways of solving barriers within my workplace.