

Which habits of the mind you are going to set for yourself as your highest person...

Linguistics, English

Introduction Habits of minds are set of practices and skills that are set by to be successful. I am a student. This essay will discuss about my habit of mind which I am going to set for rest of the semester which is striving for accuracy and precision.

Discussion

Striving for precision and accuracy highlights the significance of craftsmanship and accuracy that are needed to produce exceptional outcome and results. To become a craftsman means knowing one can continuously work on their own craft to find the best possible standards. I am selecting this habit of mind because it not only will help me to control my goals but also work them diligently. Striving for accuracy will help me to set a goal in my mind and check the progress. This habit of mind will help to review the criteria, rule and confirm the works that are completed exactly matching the specification (Hyler 76). This will help to get aware of the expectation of the faculties and standard that needed to be done to meet the requirement. This might take maximum effort and devotion but the ultimate finished product will help me to succeed in this semester. Checking continuously on the goals that are set by me and finding out ways to improve and succeed in this semester. And to make sure that I am doing my best is concentrating on my aim and blocking everything else. Goals set by me might be higher, but this habit of mind can help me to improve constantly to find out the best possible results for this semester.

Conclusion

This can be concluded that striving for precision and accuracy will help me to identify flaws, strengths and weaknesses. Constantly correcting my work and flaws will help me to find out best possible result to achieve my goals for this semester.

Work Cited

Hyerle, David. Visual Tools for Transforming Information into Knowledge.
California: Corwin.