As the battle rages, Queen Gorgon attempts to rally support in Sparta for her husband. The Spartan fight to the death and are mowed down by arrows.

Leadership Qualities of 1. Integrity “ You bring the crowns and heads of conquered kings to my city steps. You insult my queen. You threaten my people with slavery and death! No matter what the circumstance or how much he have to lose, Leonia stand on his beliefs. The reason that Integrity is so important is that when the chips are on the table, people know where you stand and know that you won’t falter or be bribed into bad choices. .

Sacrifice King Leonia had no visions that he and his 300 men where going to defeat the Persians. Sure, he knew that they COULD take a few with them, in the end though he knew they would sacrifice their lives for the greater good.

3. Charisma Leonia clearly restates his vision of a free Sparta “ an age of freedom”). He shows his understanding of the high risk that is involved as a result of their mission (“ no retreat, no surrender;” they will give their lives). He speaks to his men to keep them motivated and focused on the task at hand (they will be the ones remembered).

After his speech, his men cheer in agreement, even though they know they will give their lives for their countrymen to remain free. This is very powerful.

Leonia was able to lead his men into a battle to their deaths, and they fought to the very end to achieve the vision of their king. 4. Good Image Image means that leaders must be perceived s leaders. King Leonia is portrayed as honest, trustworthy, and loyal to his people’s beliefs and values. He took great risks or make large personal sacrifices to demonstrate loyalty to the cause.

By demonstrating superior skills and competence, King Leonia inspire confidence to his people. 5. Strong Vision King Leonia has a strong vision that Sparta will remain a free country and not fall under the rule of Persia and Xerxes. He conveys the importance of his vision through his actions to fight against the Persian army. 6. Personal Risk King Leonia knows that it is an extreme risk, most likely leading to death, for his 300 men to face ten thousands of Persian soldiers. He is also willing to risk his own life for the freedom of his country. . Sensitivity to Followers Needs Leonia chooses his best 300 soldiers to go into battle to hold back the Persian army's attack on Sparta. He keeps them motivated throughout the battles they face. 8. Unconventional Behavior Leonia goes against the recommendations of the Oracle and the Spartan council and leads 300 of his best soldiers into a battle to their deaths. " A king does not abide within his tent while his men bleed and die upon the field. A king does not dine while his men go hungry, nor sleep when they stand at watch upon the wall.
