

India coal mining industry forecast

ASSIGN BUSTER

The report also includes drivers and restraints affecting the industry, profiles of major coal mining companies, information on the major active, exploration and development projects and regulations governing the coal mining industry. Summary India is one of the three leading coal producers in the world with production of 61.5 million tons (Mt) in 2013, an increase of 3.4% over 2012. Indian's coal production mainly originates from states such as Chhattisgarh, Jharkhand, Odisha, Madhya Pradesh, Andhra Pradesh and Maharashtra's.

During PAYOFF-2012, Chhattisgarh accounted for the largest volume of non-coking coal production in the country, followed by Odisha, Madhya Pradesh, Jharkhand, Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra's, West Bengal and Assam Pradesh.

The state of Jharkhand alone had a share of more than 98% of the country's coking coal production while the rest was contributed by Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh and West Bengal. Inquire for discount @ <http://neurotransmitter.com/discount/? Name= 11791> . Scope The report contains an overview of the Indian coal mining industry together with the key growth factors and restraints affecting the country's coal mining industry.

Further, it provides detailed information about production, prices, production by grade, type and mining methods, reserves, reserves by grade and regions, competitive landscape, major active, exploration and development projects, consumption, consumption by type and trade.

Also included is the country's fiscal regime, which includes governing bodies and relevant laws, rights and obligations of the mining companies, as well as key fiscal terms. Key highlights Upcoming and ongoing coal projects are expected to improve the volume of coal production over the forecast period 2014-2020. During the 12th FYI, CEIL identified a number of projects with a view to increasing production to 556. Mat in 2017. ; Modernization initiatives undertaken by the CEIL are expected to enhance coal production.

<https://assignbuster.com/india-coal-mining-industry-forecast/>