Each woman filled out the questionnaire and after all the information was piled together and statements were released based on the findings. The main point that was found was even after many years, the victim was still extremely traumatized. Many symptoms were shown for various psychological problems for the victims. What was also found was the victims reacted and coped differently, factors that affected this were age, time since rape, force used, prior sexual assault history, and others.

Another factor that was shown was that people reacted differently by how fast they were able to tell someone else about the incident and how long after the incident were the police contacted. The victims were observed to see what were some social and psychological problems they were having so people could try to help them and future rape victims. HTTPS://www. Rain. Org/ ... Information/statistics/sexual-assault-victims In this newarticle14 a variety of get- . Different statistics are given. The different statistics that are given include the number of woman on average who are raped, what chanced are for different psychological effects, chances of getting pregnant, the number of children and women who are raped, rape victims by race, and the number of men who rape women.

This is a very interesting newarticle14 since it clearly breakdowns all the different statistics and is very easy to read. The numbers are alarming and makes you realize that this happens far too much (then again if it even happens once in the world than is too much). It really makes you think that this terrible action could occur to you or omen you know and care about. At the bottom of the page all of the site's references are listed and yet again they have the National Assault Helpline's number.

Again, a person can see the number and call if they need to. Luther, Jessica W. , A List of College Football Rape Cases (2013). Retrieved October 20, 2014. ?? [http:// upward. these student athletes is appalling. These people are supposed to be representing their school in a positive way, instead they bring shame to their school. After the new article<sup>14</sup> people leave comments and they express how upset they are as well. This shows that some colleges need to take better action to ensure that this does not happen with anyone in their school.
