

Passer test at 100

Business

At school, we recently had a seventh grader get a 100 on the fitness grand passer test in gym class. It is important because not many people are able to get this far. Most students give up before 50 so this is a big achievement. The test is one of the most hated tests in the school so many are surprised that he did it for so long, but with theater investigation we fought that many students strive to do better on the passer test this is because humans we guess determine to do better on tests like these. With the added heart rate band we can tell what their heart rate was and if they skipped out early and let me tell you something they were definitely not skipping out.

We will now speak with someone on the issue who thought they could beat the seventh grader " I think it was great that a seventh grader got a 100 because it shows that our school is fit," said Kai, and now you know what happened on first period during gym.
