

Actions speak louder than words

Business

Martin Luther King was a great man of power! He didn't just waste time thinking about how he was going to put an end to segregation, he stood up and fought for the rights he knew he had but wasn't receiving. What a person does is more important than what a person thinks because actions speak louder than words and can save a kid from bullying. What a person does is more important because actions speak louder than words. An example is Martin Luther King, he , are a difference in the world no matter how many people judged and abused him. His famous speech, " I Have A Dream" was his main action and because of him and so many others, outer world has less segregation.

Secondly, what a person does is more important because you can save a kid from bullying. When seeing a kid get bullied, it's terrifying and a lot of people are scared to interfere because their scared that if they help they will be looked down on. In my high school people bully people all the time. Other kids think about helping but just thinking it isn't going to stop the bully! Taking your thoughts and delivering them can be beneficial to you and the kid being bullied. Stopping bullying can change your whole school and can help you make lots of good friends.

In conclusion, a lot of people have a different opinions on whether its important to take an action or not. I believe that taking an action is important because it can change the world completely like Martin Lither King and that kid that stopped the bullying.
