

Gcf learning and computer security and internet safety pharminga technique used to redirect a legitimate websites traffic to another illegitimate website in order to gain access to a user's personal informationvirusa self-replicating program that is designed to infect a computer by rapidly spreading from one file to another, sometimes causing great harm

ONGCF LEARNING & COMPUTER SECURITY AND INTERNET SAFETY SPECIFICALLY FOR YOUFOR ONLY$13. 90/PAGEOrder

Nowphishingmail or instant message scams that are disguised to look like official communications from a legitimate websitetrojan horsea type of malware that appears to be benign or desirable and thus tricks the user into allowing the program access to their computer, usually through a download or email attachmentmalwareintentionally malicious software or code that is designed to damage your computer or collect information without your knowledgespywarea type of malware that collects information about users without their knowledge, often to track browsing habits and to create pop-up advertisementsspamunsolicited email or junk mailbrowse hijackingoccurs when malware or spyware replaces your browser's home page with its own in order to force more hits to a particular websiteclickjackinga technique that tricks users into clicking on a malicious link by adding the link to a transparent layer over what appears to be a legitimate web pagehoaxan email chain letter that warns of impending viruses and tries to scare users into forwarding and continuing the hoax emailmousetrappingkeeps visitors from leaving a website by locking them into a window, opening multiple windows on the desktop, or relaunching their website in a window that can't be closedsockpuppeta fake identity that someone creates and uses to deceive others for some kind of personal gainavatara virtual representation of yourselfdoocedsomeone losing their job because of something they posted

<https://assignbuster.com/gcf-learning-computer-security-and-internet-safety/>

on a blog or social networking site troll a person who posts comments just to get a rise out of people and cause a distraction flame war a heated argument in a social media outlet such as a web forum, mailing list or chat room, in which intentionally insulting comments and personal attacks become a focus of conversations screen name (username) a virtual name that is used to identify users of a website where social media is a component (real name or pseudonym) flame bait a comment posted by someone trying to provoke a flame: an angry response meme something that has gone viral, or spread rapidly around the internet, such as a catchphrase, hoax, topic, concept or piece of media posts content that people publish on websites involving social media, such as blogs, newsgroups, and forums chat live, online conversations computer privacy keeping your personal files and data secret and secure from unauthorized viewing or tampering computer security the measures you can take to avoid threats and damage to your computer from physical harm or tampering hacker a person who intentionally gains access to your computer when you connect it to the Internet with the intent of doing harm to the system or using the system in an unauthorized manner software piracy theft of a computer design or program by downloading or copying without permission anti-virus software specifically protects against viruses anti-spyware software protects against malicious software that may be gathering your information without your knowledge firewall screens out threats that try to reach your computer over the Internet