Bio 3

I have loved and aspired to work in a sound related industry since I was young. All I wanted is to experience the feeling that comes along with the profession and while exercising my passion for sound. My passion for sound is the reason why I chose to work with BIT television and a cinema in Columbia as a sound engineer.

When I was young, I would always try to fix the sound systems in the house whenever they failed. My parents supported me and encouraged to study a sound engineering course after completing my high school. The fact that my parents believed in my ability has made me to what I am today and my goal in life is to prove to them that they were right about my potential as a sound engineer in the future.
