Additionally, the Triple Entente expended about 1 00 million pounds and estimated about 225 million during the year of the war (Doc C). The two alliances spent a large amount on their militia for several reasons. Foremost, if one country used money to make their military power erupts others, the neighboring provisions felt compelled to do the same, and perhaps even exceed the surrounding nations in order to not become underdeveloped compared to the rest.

For example, Bismarck of Germany announced that, " We don't ever want to become 'the slaves of humanity. " (Doc D) Moreover, as the countries with more powerful militaries became increasingly more dominant, smaller countries, such as Germany, were forced to make a decision to become " a hammer or an anvil" (Doc D) and soon focused on strengthening their defense and opposing British power, all of which they could not do without multiplying military costs (Doc C).

This alarmed the largest countries and due to the fact that they possessed a prepared force and a stock of arms, the leaders refused to seek more a more reasonable alternative in favor of Militarism. " Militarism. " Dictionary. Com, 2014. Web, 14 Dec 2014. <http://en.Wisped.Org/wick/Militarism-war>. By the time World War I began in 1914, all of Europe was modernized and troops fully prepared as a result of the armaments race and militarism.
