

The morning.

Business

School starts too early in the morning. We have no lockers. The lunch food is disgusting. We have too much homework. My complaints.

Little kids wake up to work and feed their siblings early sunrise. They have no books and a pair of clothes or two. They only get to eat once two three days. At least we get to learn. Those are the real heroes wh deserve our lives.

Compared to them we are scum. Physically and mentally they are powerful. A benefit to society, wasted because they never went to kindergarten. And we get the opportunity to go to college for free. How embarrassing.

We're too spoiled as a society.
