

Life in a big city essay

Countries

ASSIGN BUSTER

Life in a big city can be described as fast, flowing and largely cut off from the nature. While it offers good opportunities and modern facilities, it can be quite exhaustive and stressful. Yet those who live in big cities are accustomed to the life there and find it hard to adjust in a small town or village.

Long and Short Essay on Life in a Big City in English

Here are essay on Life in a Big City of varying lengths to help you with the topic in your exam. You can select any Life in a Big City Essay as per your need:

Short Essay on Life in a Big City – Essay 1 (200 words)

Life in a big city is mostly fast paced. There is a lot of competition all around. Everyone wants to do better than the other and they keep struggling day and night to further their aim.

A sense of competition is ingested in children from a very young age. Every parent wants his child to stay ahead of the competition. Schools in big cities do not just focus on studies but also on other activities. They boast of good infrastructure and highly-learned faculties to prepare the students for the life ahead.

Big cities also offer good job opportunities. Someone with good educational qualification can acquire a well paying job in a big city. The opportunities are endless if one is really aiming to work. Similarly, big cities have all the modern amenities needed for a comfortable living. However, earning a comfortable life equipped with all the modern day facilities can actually be quite stressful.

While the city life can render comfort it does not guarantee peace. Several people relocate from villages to big cities in order to make a better living. While many of them are able to earn good and enhance their lifestyle they end up losing their peace of mind in the mad rush of the big cities.

---

Essay on Life in a Big City – Opportunity for Students – Essay 2 (300 words)

Introduction

Life in a big city is full of competition and opportunities for the students. Big cities have better education opportunities. The schools and colleges here are equipped with a good infrastructure and all the modern facilities to offer a great learning experience.

These schools allow the students to explore their interest from the very beginning as they do not just focus on the academics but also on extracurricular activities. A number of activities are introduced for the proper growth and development of the students and also to help them identify their areas of interest.

Better Infrastructure; Better Education

Compared to small towns and villages, the quality of education provided in the big cities is quite high. The schools here are equipped with all kinds of facilities. From well equipped laboratories to state of the art sports complexes – they have it all. The faculties recruited for these schools are highly educated and well-versed in their subjects.

The management here is experienced and is driven to improve the standard of education. They are focused on building the future of the students and work hard to achieve this goal. The competition is high and students develop competitive spirit from an early age.

Variety of Courses

Unlike small towns and villages, there are various colleges in big cities. These colleges offer numerous courses specializing in different fields. In order to seek admission in a specialized course in a good college, the students are mostly required to clear entrance exam.

Big cities encompass good coaching centres that train the students to crack these entrance exams and get admission in the college of their choice. Students who get the opportunity of studying in big cities can thus choose from a wide variety of courses and pursue a career of their choice. They stand a better chance of building a bright career.

Conclusion

Big cities are especially good when it comes to higher studies because of the variety of courses available here. This is the reason why many students relocate to these cities to pursue higher education.

Essay on Life in a Big City – Personal, Professional and Economical Growth – Essay 3 (400 words)

Introduction

Life in a big city is exciting and ever-evolving. There are a lot of opportunities to learn and grow for people residing in a big city. These cities provide a chance to grow personally and professionally. People living in these cities turn out to be smarter than those living in the small towns and villages owing to the kind of exposure they get. Life in these cities is fast paced and only those who have a smart bent of mind can survive here.

Personal Growth in Big Cities

There is a good scope of personal growth and development in the big cities. Children living in such cities have access to good schools and colleges that do not just focus on the academics but on the all round development of the students. These educational institutes give the individuals a chance to participate in various kinds of activities and events to help them explore their interest. Besides, there are a number of activities one can involve in outside the school which help in personal growth.

Professional Growth in Big Cities

Big cities offer great career opportunities and lucrative business options unlike the villages and small towns where the scope is limited. Several industries and firms operate here and offer good job opportunities to people with different educational qualification. The prospects of setting business are also good in these cities. These cities are well-connected with other parts of the country which is a big advantage. It helps in expanding business and dealing with clients living in different cities.

Many institutes in big cities offer courses to working professionals to help them grow further and attain new professional heights. The prospects of setting up and expanding business in a big city are immense if a person is willing to work hard.

Economic Growth and Big Cities

Many new businesses are set up in the big cities each year. As these businesses grow and flourish they contribute towards the economic growth of the country.

Conclusion

While the big cities offer excellent opportunities to learn and grow, life here is busy. There is so much to do that there is just no time to sit and relax. People are so engrossed with their work that they do not even get time to spend with their family. Many people feel isolated in such atmosphere. While they become successful in life they hardly have anyone to celebrate their success with.

---

Essay on Life in a Big City Advantages and Disadvantages – Essay 4 (500 words)

Introduction

It is rightly said that nothing comes easy. Life in a big city may seem alluring but it comes at some price. There are many advantages of living in a big city however its disadvantages are no less. People planning to shift to a big city must analyse the advantages and disadvantages of city life before making the final move.
<https://assignbuster.com/life-in-a-big-city-essay/>

Advantages of Life in a Big City

Here are some of the advantages of life in a big city:

1. Infrastructure

Life in a big city is much better than that in villages because of the infrastructure it offers. The condition of the roads, parks, market areas and other public places in big cities are better. These are well-planned and well-maintained to ensure the comfort and convenience of the public.

1. Healthcare Facilities

Big cities encompass good hospitals that offer high end medical facilities. Special clinics and hospitals have been established here to treat patients suffering from different health conditions. These are equipped with the latest medical equipments. The team of doctors as well as support staff in these hospitals is well qualified to handle their duties.

1. Recreational Activities

There are many malls, shopping centres, amusement parks, restaurants, movie halls and other places of recreation in the big cities. Besides, a number of events such as live band performances, food festivals, concerts, cultural shows, plays, etc are organized every now and then for the entertainment of people.

1. Education and Career Opportunities

Big cities encompass primary and secondary schools with good infrastructure. The school staff and management of these schools are well educated and trained. They focus on the all round growth and development of the students. Several renowned colleges have also been set up in these cities. They offer specialized courses and train students to pursue career of their choice.

Disadvantages of Life in a Big City

Here are some of the disadvantages of life in a big city:

1. High Cost of Living

The cost of living in a big city is much higher compared to that in a village or small town. The house rent and commuting charges can especially dig a hole in your pocket. Maintaining a good lifestyle in a big city can be quite expensive.

1. Constant Hustle and Bustle

There is constant hustle and bustle in the big cities. People work twenty four-seven in these cities. The roads are always full of traffic as the people here are always on the move.

1. High Pollution Level

There is a lot of pollution in the big cities. There are thousands of cars on the roads and numerous industries in different parts of these cities. They do not only pollute the air making it difficult to breathe but also cause a lot of noise pollution.

<https://assignbuster.com/life-in-a-big-city-essay/>

1. High Competition

There is competition at every step in the big cities. This competition and urge to stay ahead of the others can be quite taxing and stressful.

Conclusion

Life in a big city is no doubt comfortable however it also has its set of drawbacks. While it offers good opportunities and facilities, it is not that easy to acquire all this. One needs to work hard to lead a respectful and comfortable life in a big city.

---

Long Essay on Life in a Big City – Essay 5 (600 words)

Introduction

Life in a big city looks attractive because of the kind of facilities it offers. Several people leave small towns and villages and move to big cities as they are enticed by the kind of lifestyle it offers. They toil hard in order to achieve the life of their dreams but not everyone is successful in their attempts. Many such people end up in misery and move back to their home towns or lead a wretched life in the big cities.

Endless Opportunities

There is no doubt about the fact that big cities offer endless opportunities. There are numerous job as well as business opportunities in the big cities unlike small towns where the scope is limited. Industrial sector is growing by the day and more and more work force is required to fill different positions.

So, people with different educational qualification and work experience are required here. Similarly, the service sector is also booming at a good pace. These operators mostly have their offices in big cities and thus the scope of work opportunities is higher here. Many of these work places hire people with basic knowledge about the respective field and train them on the job.

Big cities also encompass numerous educational institutes and training centres that educate and train people to work in different sectors. There is no dearth of opportunities for a person who is willing to learn and work hard.

Life of Isolation

There is a lot of competition in the big cities. Everyone wants to earn more, look better and attain a better lifestyle. Most people here are so blinded by power and money that they cannot look beyond it. They slog day and night to earn money and are busy competing with their friends, relatives, neighbours and even their own siblings. In this rush to attain things, they are often left isolated.

They may be able to make good money and have a great lifestyle but they are still not happy as they have no one to share their happiness with. Life in a big city may be equipped with all the modern day facilities but people here often suffer from loneliness and depression. This is quite unlike the life in towns and villages where people value relationships and are there for each other. They visit each other frequently, celebrate festivals and other special occasions together and help each other in the hour of need.

Comfort at the Cost of Peace

Life in big cities can be said to be chaotic. There is hustle and bustle everywhere. People live in a concrete jungle far from nature. Their life may be comfortable however they attain this comfort at the cost of their peace of mind. They may be equipped with better medical facilities however the chances of incurring health problems in big cities are also quite high.

This is because of the high level of pollution in these cities and also due to the increasing stress level among people living here. Similarly, there are better schools and colleges in big cities but the level of competition here is somehow robbing the children of their childhood.

The cost of living in the big cities is quite high. In order to maintain a good lifestyle and build a good social standing it is essential to work hard day in and day out. Most people in big cities take huge loans for purchasing different things such as house, car, etc. Paying these loans and maintaining their lifestyle can be stressful. So even as they lead a comfortable life they are never at peace.

Conclusion

Life in a big city seems to be a cake walk but it is actually quite tough. It can be extremely challenging. Not everyone can survive here.