

Memorable day in my life

My sister wedding is one of the most memorable days of my life. I was told that my sister will be married to her husband next week. This leads me to think about my childhood memory. My elder sister is eight years older than me. She is pretty and kind to everyone.

My sister herself always takes care of a family. She has a high sense of responsibility. She knew household expenses were falling on the father's shoulder, therefore, she did a part-time job in order to reduce the father's financial burden. She even will teach me to do the homework and play with me once the father left to work at my younger age.

I have mixed feelings once I knew the wedding matter. I felt happy because she found her beloved, but also felt down since she will stay at Melaka. Sooner, the wedding dinner held on January 2014. The event's atmosphere is full of happiness and touching. All attendants bless the newlywed will live healthy and love forever. The most memorable moment in my life
