Each nurse is embodied by a distinguishable characteristic: they desire to aid and to be of service to other people. Every nurse possesses his or her inherent protocols in morality. Their morality cannot be examined or encoded in paper; however, it prospers as each of them functions and increases their knowledge about the field. Individual morality is vulnerable to transitions with latest knowledge and information; nevertheless maintain the identical protocols and principles.

It is my principle that every patient must acquire the best and corresponding laity of healthcare not depending on income, age, gender or ethnicity. My principle is that the family must be informed on the state of the patient and included in the plan of care for the patient.. Stand that the Medical Surgical ambiance must be favorable to recovery. This signifies upholding a serene, quite and calm place that is required and implemented in a hospital setting. M accountable in guaranteeing my patients to acquire every required medical care and not acquire anything less.. Utilize my discernment and exposition to choose the exceptional resolutions for my patients. (Ethics Game, 2014) m always required to maintain awareness and understanding such as that I can constantly acquire information and nurture myself as a health care provider and an individual.

To enact my principles on nursing, I am required to keep in mind of my own health. I must have enough energy to attend for delicate patients and manage the everyday pressure. “ Principles reside at the center of the divergent domain of human attitudes and are conveyed in each human choice and response. They symbolize fundamental judgment of what is right, admirable and favorable and influence both professional and public attitudes” (Raisin, 2008).

Since I am aware that ethics on a personal level can and will change, will review my personal ethics statement annually, reflect upon myself to assess if am truly adhering to my statement, finally, I will revise my personal ethics statement to reflect the kind of person I am and to also give the direction I need to become a better person and to achieve my ethical goals.
